GOVERNMENT ANXIETY

About Fate of Troops and Valuable War Vessels.

President Roosevelt Will Be Off to Panama Immediately After Election.

[Special to THE REPUBLICAN.]
Washington, D. C., Oct. 21. During the last few days the Government has been exceedingly anxious as to the fate of the many American troops and valuable warships now on duty in and around Cuba. For forty-eight hours after the hurricane struck the Island this country was as entirely cut off from Cuba as though the Island had been wiped off the map. Considerable damage was done in the South and every wire south of Jacksonville was down. The Navy Department put on as good a face as it could in the matter and said there was no danger apprehended. At the same time, with all the cables gone and many of the land wires wrecked, frantic efforts were made to get into communication with Havana by wireless. Charleston was the furthest point south on the coast where there was a wireless station that could be reached by land lines. For two days and nights she tried unavailingly to get either St. Augustine or Pensacola but naturally in such a severe storm the wireless masts were one of the first things to go down. After long effort Charleston got Pensacola and after a still longer wait a message was relayed to Key West, whence it was flashed to Havana just about the time that cable communication was reestablished, and the grounding of the Brooklyn was known. Very meagre news has been received by the Department so far, as to the damage done to American property in Cuba, but it is known that there are over 100 dead, that more than 100 houses have been destroyed and considerable damage done to the American warships. How serious the damage to the Brooklyn will prove is not yet known, but it will be a curious fatality if, after bearing the brunt of the sea-fight off Santiago, she lays her iron bones under the Moro as the result of an ordinary hurricane.

Arrangements have been made for the President's trip to Panama and it is announced that he will start on November 8th. Secretary Root's report of favorable conditions there makes the President more than ever anxious to take a look at the Isthmus. He will be accompanied by the new cruisers the Washington and the Tennessee, while the President himself will journey on the great battleship Louisiana. Secretary Taft will not accompany him on this trip, but he will stay in Washington ready to deal with the Cuban situation, as the President's deputy, should occasion arise.

The reports that have been given out of Secretary Taft's refusal to go on the Supreme bench may be taken about as seriously as other newspaper predictions two years in advance of an event. The event of course is the Presidential election, and the inference is that if the Secretary refuses the Supreme Court it will be because he considers himself in line for the next Presidential nomination. It is entirely too far ahead to judge as to this combination of circumstances. There are a great many things to be taken into consideration. There are other Presidential possibilities, including even President Roosevelt himself. It is known quite well that President Roosevelt has the highest regard for Mr. Taft's ability as a lawyer, and it is quite possible that he can have the Supreme Court appointment any time that he wants it in the next two years, if his inclination should point that way.

Friends Disappointed.

Benton, Ky., Oct. 23.—Governor Beckham spoke here to-day to several hundred people. He spoke along his usual line, of defense against charges made against his administration by Senator McCreary and attorney General Hays. There was nothing new in his speech, and many of his friends are sorely disappointed that he made no reference to the charge that he received a check for $3,500 from the brewing interest during his last campaign for Governor. Some of his friends had confidently asserted that he would refute this charge in his speech here. Gov. Beckham made an attack on the Courier-Journal, saying it never loses an opportunity of misrepresenting him.

ANSEL PATTON

Arrested in Arizona--Wanted Here on Seduction Charge.

Sheriff at Globe Wires Information to Ohio County Attorney.

Some time ago a warrant was issued by County Judge, W. B. Taylor, on information furnished by Sam P. Rowan, charging Ansel Patton with the seduction of Lizzie Rowan, under promise of marriage. Miss Rowan is the daughter of Mr. J. B. Rowan, a prominent citizen of the Heflin neighborhood, and is under age.

Wednesday the following dispatch was received by County Attorney E. M. Woodward:

"Globe Arizona, 10-24, 1906. District Attorney, Ohio Co. Ansel Patton in jail. Wire warrant and amount of bail.

W. G. STANLEY, Sheriff."

The offense is not a bailable one, and the authorities at Globe have been requested to hold Patton pending the arrival of an officer with proper requisition papers.

It is understood that ex-Sheriff C. P. Keown will be appointed State Agent, and that he will leave for Globe to bring Patton back, as soon the necessary papers can be secured from Frankfort.

Attorney W. H. Barnes has been retained to aid in the prosecution. If found guilty the punishment is from one to five years in the penitentiary. If a marriage should be resorted to, in order to stop the prosecution, under a late act he must live with her two years, in order to avoid a revival of the prosecution.

Surprise Birthday Dinner.

An enjoyable social function was the surprise birthday dinner given Mr. and Mrs. Uriah Coppage at their home near Sulphur Springs last Saturday by their many friends.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Nattie White, Mr. and Mrs. Worth Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. John Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. Vester Neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Quisenberry, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie White, Mrs. E. W. Nevitt, of Owensboro; Mrs. Debbie Wedding, Mr. Arthur Petty, Miss Elender Petty and Daniel Midkiff, of Hartford; Miss Eva Duke, Mr. Murry Coppage, Mr. John Bobbit, of Magan; and Mr. Tom Barrett, of Dawson Springs. They all enjoyed a pleasant day and Mr. and Mrs. Coppage received many presents.

Thug Knocked Down.

Paducah, Ky., Oct. 23.—Stopped by hold-up men and ordered to deliver, Walter Sights, clerk in a local bank, let drive at one of the men with a piece of brick, knocked him down and made his escape to his apartments. Young Sights worked late in the bank and the men who attempted to hold him up were standing across the street when he emerged. He suspected something wrong and armed himself with the brick which he later used so effectively.

K. of P. Luncheon.

On account of the entertainment given at the Court Hall Tuesday night by Miss Nannie Barbee, the K. of P. luncheon was deferred until next Tuesday evening. Every member is expected to be present, as there will be plenty of work to do before the feast is spread.

PARKER

Hits Hearst Hard In New York.

Late Democratic Candidate For President Pays Compliment to Republican Candidate.

At a meeting held in New York City Tuesday night by the judiciary nomination committee, Judge Alton B. Parker paid his respects to Hearst and Murphy in the following vigorous language:

"Mr. Parker after saying that he had left the bench never to return, paid a tribute to his former associates and the present members of the State courts, and appealed to his audience to vote for Judges who were known to be free of political bias and political bosses.

"A machine," he said, "is not the proper place from which to select Judges, and the reason of it is very plain. A political machine, otherwise an organization which receives its sole control and direction from one man and the will of one man—is a machine organized on this principle. That the men within it give to the machine in order that they may receive, and the boss in turn gives to them in order that he and the members of the machine may receive in return.

"Now, there is no difference between a Republican machine and a Democratic machine, but in this particular canvass our work is directed against a combination of a Democratic machine and Independence League machine.

MAKES A COMPARISON.

"Our Republican friends, while not able to endorse our ticket altogether, have nevertheless endorsed twelve out of the thirteen candidates, and I suppose we ought to be satisfied with that. But if the gallant leader of the Republican machine, himself a man of learning, of character, of great ability, and, as I believe, lofty patriotic purpose, was unequal to the opportunity to arise to that full height which the occasion offered him, what, I should like to know, could you expect of a machine that was dominated by a Murphy or a Hearst or both in combination?

"The evidence is unmistakable," continued Judge Parker, "that the leader of Tammany Hall realized that the only opportunity he would have for patronage this year would be in this judicial ticket. Did you dream, or did I—did anyone suppose for a moment that there could be any inducement which would lead him to place his hand in the hands of the man who had denounced him as a corruptionist and as a criminal, and had pictured him with stripes upon him and a ball and chain at his feet?

DOUGHT TO BE A CRIME.

"And yet he did it. He did more. Aspiring to be the leader of his party in the State, he nevertheless went to a convention and there by his will and by his force, by his ability to command this and that man to break his promise, he turned a minority into a majority. He made a convention which had a valid title a fraudulent one. Those things which were done, which in business constitute a crime, ought to constitute a crime in politics. Was there any reward to come to him except the Judges? None at all.

"May God in His infinite mercy and goodness incline the hearts of these, His people, to fight for our Independent ticket, as they severally would fight for their birthrights, for then the dreadful calamity with which we are threatened will pass by on the other side."

Beckham to Speak Here.

Governor J. C. W. Beckham, candidate for nomination for United States Senator, will speak here at 12 o'clock to-day. There will no doubt be a good many people out to hear him.

It will no doubt be of considerable interest to a majority of those who hear him if he will explain why he approved the act of the last Legislature placing Ohio county in a legislative district composed of three counties and having a population of over 53,000 when the constitution of Kentucky provides that not more than two counties shall be joined for such purpose and 22,000 being the maximum population for such district.

He might enhance his chances for nomination should he explain to the satisfaction of his hearers why he approved bills providing for the creation of new offices and raise in salary of old ones which will increase the burden of taxpayers $50,000 annually and vetoed a bill providing for the payment, for one day, to cover expenses of travel to the court house of persons regularly summoned as jurors and not used.

The Governor might clear up his befogged temperance horizon by explaining why he waited until he became an active candidate for the nomination he is now seeking before he attempted to close up the saloons and theaters in Louisville on Sunday, when he has been Governor six years and had as much authority to act during that entire time as he now has. He might add one jot or tittle to his illustrious temperance crusade by giving good reasons why he retained in office as one of his appointees Wingate Thompson, special police for the new State Capitol, after he had been accused and indicted for running a blind tiger on the new Capitol grounds, while acting as such police.

Mr. Beckham may say that Republicans have no interest in this political scrap, which is probably true in some particulars. But Republicans and all good citizens are interested to the extent of desiring good government and sincerity in the administration thereof.

HENRY CLAYTER

Gets 20 Years in the Penitentiary--Excitement in Court Room.

[Hearstville Democrat.]

Henry Clayter, the Irvington negro, who eloped to Chicago with a 15 year old white girl, was given 20 years in the penitentiary yesterday in Breckenridge circuit court. He was tried upon the charge of carnally knowing a female under the age of sixteen years.

On being formally arranged the defendant entered a plea of guilty. During the progress of the hearing of the Commonwealth's evidence and during and after Mr. Layman's speech, there was much feeling demonstrated by those in the crowded court room. When the girl testified that the intimacy was forced by the defendant there were many firm glances turned in the direction of where Clayter was seated. The court experienced some trouble in securing a jury, most of the parties available having formed or expressed an opinion concerning the case. The jail has been guarded since Clayter arrived here, but there has been no demonstration that would suggest mob violence. That the people were willing to let the law take its course is no more than should be and was expected of them, but mob violence was predicted and our citizenship has made another demonstration of its character. Clayter was taken to Eddyville Thursday night.

Anderson, Evansville; John B. Moseley, Owensboro; J. W. Ament, Livermore; B. Sheppard, Louisville; Miss Nannie Barbee, Danville; J. Frank Baker, Beaver Dam; Morgan Yewell, Bardstown, George Holtsclaw, Evansville; J. M. Barnett, Owensboro; Mark Clough, George Debruler, H. H. Spain, Columbus; A. F. Downs, Evansville; J. W. Alexander, Owensboro; Robert C. Brown, Evansville.

TROUBLE MAY FOLLOW

Says President Dunn, If Tobacco Is Taxed.

Says Farmers Will Not Stand For City Tax On Pooled Crops.

Whitesville, Ky., Oct. 22.—As so much is said just now about the city tax on the pooled tobacco it might be well for me to give a few words of warning. I do so to keep down trouble. I do not want any war between the A. S. of E. and Owensboro, and it will surely come if they persist. The people declare it unjust and public sentiment is so bitter that trouble will follow, and if the four counties take it up, as they undoubtedly will, anybody can see what it will lead to. The order can command four-fifths of the four counties. If these should decide to quit Owensboro it may hurt Owensboro more than the tax will do it good. I give this warning, because I do not want anything of this kind to happen. I am in better position to know than anyone else, and I know that the best men in the four counties will take this up. Now, we have many warm friends in Owensboro, and they condemn the tax. I do hope this can be settled without any hard feelings.

On the first of November the committee on the pledging papers met in Owensboro. I will call all the new chairmen of the finance committee and the old finance committee to meet me at Owensboro on that day at the Columbus house at 9 a. m. Let both the new and old finance committees meet on that day. If any districts have not elected their committees by that day, they will be appointed. You have until that date to elect. Please see to it at once. I want to elect our grader, and must do it at about the first of November.

I hear much of tobacco buyers. Let each local appoint one man in each school district to see that no man sells who has pledged, and any man who sells report him to the chairman of your district. Let him give the man who buys, and in the presence of witnesses, notice not to deliver the tobacco and if already delivered, notify the man who has the tobacco that we will enter suit against him. These contracts are legal, and we will enforce them by law. We can protect ourselves. Any man selling under a false name, will be dealt with under the head of misrepresentation. We will catch it all and we propose to do so.

Some are asking the address of our county secretary. Send all money to W. P. Wathen, Philpot, Ky. It will reach him. He is on the rural free delivery, but I do not know his number. He will soon give his number. Let all dues be sent in promptly.

Don't forget the call for the first of November. Let all the new and old finance committee of the county be at the Columbus house at 9 o'clock.

J. W. DUNN.

County President A. S. of E.

Finance Committee to Meet.

The finance committee of the A. S. of E. composed of the five counties of the Green River district, will meet in Owensboro next Saturday at 1 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting is to make arrangements for handling the 1906 crop.

The finance committee was given full control of all arrangements for the handling of the 1906 crop and its meeting on Saturday will be for this purpose. It is not expected that the arrangements will differ materially from those of last year.

Mrs. Annie Coffman Dead.

These words came to us like a thunderbolt from a clear sky. Annie, the child-friend of our youth, how dare the ruthless hand of death claim this subject for his victim? I claim this subject for his victim? I claim her, as yesterday, a prattling little child of four, frail in body, bright beyond her years, a favorite child, the sunshine of a home. Of t is the time, when our day's work was done, have those little hands done us a kindness; those childish lips, unconsciously, spoken words of cheer and comfort. I behold her later in life, a kind, considerate and affectionate girl, grown into womanhood, under the tender care of a watchful mother. Later still, I see her companion and helpmate of my friend; the life, the light, the hope and inspiration of another home. Amid these scenes the exit came. The void, the aching hearts, an unfinished life. Why this cruel fate? The Infinite alone may answer.

Husband, father, mother, friends, be not displeased with the Master's work. Annie lived in this world to make it brighter and better, she died to leave us an example to emulate. May we all meet her in that home beyond the realm of death.

L. H. C.

TO GIVE THANKS.

President Roosevelt Issues Proclamation Fixing November 29.

Washington, Oct. 24.—The president has issued a proclamation naming Thursday, November 29, as a day of thanksgiving.

The text of the proclamation is as follows:

"A proclamation: The time of year has come when, in accordance with the wise custom of our forefathers, it becomes my duty to set aside a special day of thanksgiving and prayer to the Almighty because of the blessings we have received and of prayer that these blessings may be continued. Yet another year of wide-spread well-being has passed. Never before in our history, or in the history of any other nation, has a people enjoyed more abounding material prosperity than has ours a prosperity so great that it should arouse in us no spirit of reckless pride, and least of all a spirit of heedless disregard of our responsibilities, but rather a sober sense of our many blessings and a resolute purpose, under Providence, not to forfeit them by any action of our own.

Material well-being, indispensable though it is, can ever be nothing but the foundation of true national greatness and happiness. If we build nothing on this foundation, then our national life will be as meaningless and empty as a house where only the foundation has been laid. On our material well-being must be built a superstructure of individual and national life, lived in accordance with the laws of the highest morality, or else our prosperity itself will in the long run turn out a curse instead of a blessing. We should be both reverently thankful for what we have received and earnestly bent on turning it into a means of grace and not of destruction.

"Accordingly, I hereby set apart Thursday, the 29th day of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and supplication, on which the people shall meet in their homes or churches, devoutly acknowledge all that has been given them and to pray that they may in addition receive the power to use these gifts aright. "In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington this 22d day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand, nine hundred and six, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and thirty-first.

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

"By the President:

"ELIHU ROOT, Secretary State."

Announcement.

The new Baptist church at Baizetown, Ky., will be dedicated the 4th Sunday in October, 1906. Rev. A. B. Gardner, of Hartford, will preach the dedicatory sermon at 11 o'clock a. m. There will be dinner on the ground and the public in general is invited to attend.

Gompers on Labor Under Democratic and Republican Administrations.

1890. "Since August of this year we have been in the greatest industrial depression this country has ever experienced. It is no exaggeration to say that more than 3,000,000 of our fellow-tollers throughout the country are without employment and have since the time named. This lamentable industrial condition is attributed by many to various causes, and it seems to me that the accurate statement to them here is both requisite and appropriate, so that we may be better enabled to set on foot legislation that it may tend to a proper solution of the problem dependent upon the wage-workers for subsistence. Never in the history of the world has so large a number of people been sought for an opportunity to earn a livelihood and contribute to the support of their fellow-men. In a society where such abnormal conditions prevail there must of necessity be something wrong at the base foundation."

Employer's Liability Law.

The employer's Liability Law, enacted by the 56th Congress, is recognized by railroad men as one of the best and most advantageous pieces of legislation that has ever been enacted for the working man who has to incur danger. This law makes every common carrier responsible and liable to any of its employees or their representatives in case of death for all damages which may result from the negligence of its officers, agents, or employees, or by reason of any defect due to negligence in its cars, engines, appliances, machinery, track, roadbed, ways or works. The representatives of the common carriers regarded this as very stringent legislation, and sought to prevent its enactment, but President Roosevelt recommended it, and the Republican majority in congress enacted it.

This legislation, more perhaps than any other of the last session, shows the care taken by the Republican majority of the rights of the general army of railroad men who risk their lives in the performance of their duty. Speaker Cannon and the house leaders took a particular interest in this bill and the speaker carried in the session made it evident that he bill would be brought before the house for action. Representative Sterling, of Illinois, took charge of the bill and presented the report from the Judiciary Committee. He went to the speaker for advice as to how to pass it. The speaker said it was an order under the suspension of the rules on April 2nd and on that day made it the final order of business. The speaker is held responsible, as a rule, for all bills brought up for action, it being taken for granted he will not give recognition to any measure unless the same has been carefully examined. When the speaker gave recognition for the Liability bill, it passed without division. Both the president and the speaker giving their stamp of approval to this stringent legislation, it will be difficult for any Democratic demagogue to say that the Republicans did not accept full responsibility for it.

Human Blood Marks

A tale of horror was told by marks of human blood in the home of J. W. Williams, a well known merchant of Blue Ky. He writes: "Twenty years ago I had severe hemorrhages of the lungs, and was near death when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery. It completely cured me and I have remained well ever since." It cures Hemorrhages, Chronic Coughs, Settled Colds and Bronchitis, and is the only known cure for Weak Lungs. Every bottle guaranteed by Z. Wayne Griffin and Bro., druggists. 50c and $1.00. And bottle free.

Public Accounting.

One of the defects in our State laws is the failure to provide for the examination of accounts of public officials. The Ohio State Journal, referring to a recent law passed in that State, says: "The State bureau of uniform public accounting, created by the Legislature as an adjunct to the State Auditor's office, is accomplishing much toward placing city, county township and school district affairs on a business basis."

The work already done proves beyond question the wisdom of the 1898. "That terrible period for the wage-earners of this country which began in 1893 and which has left behind it such a record of horror, hunger and misery practically ended with the dawn of the year 1897. Wages had been steadily forced down from 1893 till toward the end of 1895, and it was variously estimated that between two million and two and a half million wage earners were unemployed. It is agreed by all that the wage-earners are the principal consumers of American products, and it necessarily follows that a reduction in wages involves a diminution in the power of consumption, and consequently a proportionate decrease in production, and, naturally, also in the force of labor required for the production. A reduction of wages, therefore, results in an increase in the army of the unemployed, and any circumstance or combination of circumstances that will check reductions in wages, and hence the diminution of consumption by the masses, is a humane act, based on the soundest laws of economics and progress."

properly creosoted and laid on a concrete foundation, make a pavement which possesses high excellence in a greater number of essential qualities than any other now in use. Among these qualities are great smoothness, low traction resistance, minimum noise, and, considering its smoothness, comparatively little slipperiness. Slipperiness has sometimes proved objectionable, but is not greater for wood than for sheet asphalt, all temperature conditions considered; and wood is much less variable in this particular than is asphalt. It is probable that no other pavement with equally slight traction resistance will be found less slippery. Wood pavement is also easy to clean and to maintain, and when well laid gives promise of proving more durable than any other except one constructed of the hardest granite.

The cost of creosoted wood pavement is at present comparatively high, averaging about $3 per square yard, including concrete foundation. In several cities, however, the cost of the pavement has been reduced materially below this figure, and good results have been secured.

Is the Moon Inhabited.

Science has proven that the moon has an atmosphere, which makes life in some form possible on that satellite; but not for human beings, who have a hard enough time on this earth of ours; especially those who don't know that Electric Bitters cure Headache, Biliousness, Malaria, Chills and Fever, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Dizziness, Torpid Liver, Kidney complaints, General Debility and Female weakness. Unequaled as a general Tonic and Appetizer for weak persons and especially for the aged. It induces sound sleep. Fully guaranteed by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro., druggist. Price only 50c.

Wages, the Dollar Left Over.

(From Illinois Campaign Text Book.) Out of our 85,000,000 of population, 35,000,000 are wage-earners. If they should receive the compensation of $1 per day, the money thus earned would add to the daily circulation of our country $35,000,000. If by reason of protective legislation, they should receive $2 per day, then we would have $70,000,000 in circulation instead of $35,000,000, and a like ratio of increase in wages will increase the amount of money placed daily in circulation, for money is the basis upon which all wealth is accumulated. The margin of each day's business is the possibility of gain. The greater the volume the greater the possibility of a margin. Truly, Wendell Phillips uttered something worthy of more than passing notice when he said: "It is the dollar left on Saturday evening, after all the bills are paid, that means education, independence, self-respect, manhood. It increases the value of every acre nearby, fills the town with dwellings, opens public libraries and crowds them, dots the continent with cities and collieries with railways. The one remaining dollar insures progress and guarantees millions to its owner."

WOOD PAVING.

Investigations Being Made to Determine Best Materials and Methods of Street Building.

Wood has long been used for street pavements. Only within the past few years, however, has it been satisfactorily adopted in the cities of the United States. Previous failures can be traced almost entirely to improper construction or methods of preparation. In most cases round blocks of cedar or other woods were used, without precautions against decay and without adequate foundation for the pavement. The consequence was that, as a paving material, wood fell into disfavor.

Recent use of rectangular wooden blocks for street pavements has given excellent results. Many engineers believe that these blocks, when established of such a department. In the 25 cities whose books have been examined thus far, almost no public office has been found free of the grossest carelessness in the management of the people's money. Similar conditions obtain in the counties, townships and school districts. While only two cases of actual dishonesty have been brought to light, a general looseness of methods, which amounts to the same thing so far as the taxpayers' interests are concerned has been unearthed.

The bureau aims to prescribe such a system of book keeping as to make these dangerous irregularities impossible in the future. The three schemes, one for the cities, another for the counties and the third for the townships and school districts, insure accuracy and uniformity in public accounting. After they have been completely installed in the three classes of political subdivisions and the system of annual reports and strict State supervisions is in full operation, the misappropriation of the public funds will be a very difficult thing to accomplish in Ohio.

Receipt for Preserving Husbands.

Husbands, like peaches, will not keep the year around unless they are well preserved. First, select one carefully. Be sure he is not too green; neither should he be overripe. He might look very tempting and mellow in the market, but if he is too old he will not stand the test of the preserving process, but will expose his hard stony heart. Husband grown in the tropics of pleasure look very fine, but are usually insipid. The home grown are best. Select your husband, if possible, from a family tree grown on the sunny side of a church. You will be sure that he is sound at heart. Unsound husbands, like unsound peaches, often have to be sorrowfully cast aside. Having selected your husband you should have a clear, steady, cherry fire of love. Your preserving kettles should be neat and clean. Husband, like peaches, look very black if this is unclear. Give him plenty of sweetness. Much sugar is needed. Vinegar is never used in sweet preserves. If you think he needs a little spice, use it with caution. Do not keep stirring him up, neither should you keep poking him with sharp points too see if he is done; it may spoil his looks.

If the above receipt is followed and you have selected the right kind of a husband you will find his love well preserved.

For First Voters to Consider.

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat.) A Protective Tariff is a sharply defined question in the campaign of 1906. First voters must necessarily divide upon it. Do they wish to protect American wages and industries from foreign competition, or open wide the ports to the products of cheap foreign labor, admitting it free from any duty of a home protective nature? Do first voters prefer to make the next house Democratic, and so cut off the present administration from legislative support during its last two years? These are practical business questions for 1,500,000 first voters who are themselves, for the most part, just engaging in business. This year over 60,000 voters in Missouri are entitled to take part in their first state and congressional election. Yet there are Bourbons who insist that this state is necessarily Democratic and that an old party label is of more consequence even to its young men than a living issue. It is a false view, and fresh surprises are in store for such hidebound belittlers.

Changed to a Republican Paper.

Since my father and I have purchased "The Livermore News" and have been publishing same, we have found it unprofitable to publish an Independent newspaper in this community, and as there are two Democratic papers already being published in McLean county, and as our political views are Republican, we have decided to make "The News", beginning with this issue, a Republican paper; upholding and advocating Republican views as clearly and as strongly as we see them.

We do not make this change to annoy or anger our Independent or Democratic friends; we only do it because it is to our advantage to do so and because we are Republicans and think it our duty to our beliefs and to our party to uphold and advocate our views. We cannot see as there can be any one with reason and fairness who will condemn us for the stand we have taken, for it is our privilege to express our views as we see them and to show our political colors.

We do not wish to incite the anger or cause hard feelings with our political opponents by this change, or by anything we may publish in its columns, but we fully expect to publish our opinions and advocate our political doctrines as truthfully, but as plainly and as strongly, as it is in our power to see them.

Yours very truly,
ROSCOE I. DOWNS, Editor.

A Banking Conundrum.

A Western exchange published the following conundrum: A banker sauntering home for his dinner saw a $10 bill laying on the curbstone. He picked it up and took the number in order to find the owner. While at home his wife remarked to him that the butcher had sent a bill amounting to $10. The only money he had with him was the bill he had found, which he gave to her and she paid the butcher. The butcher paid it to a farmer for a calf, and the farmer paid it to a washwoman, and she, owing the banker a note of $10 went to the banker and paid the note. The banker recognized the bill as the one he had found and which up to that time had paid $50 worth of debt. On careful investigation he discovered that the bill was counterfeit. Now will some of our friends tell us what has been lost in the transaction, and by whom?

Republican Labor Legislation.

(Republican Campaign Text Book.) Since its very inception the Republican party has been legislating in every Congress for the uplifting of labor and the bettering of conditions for all working classes. Through our tariff laws the working people of the United States have been protected against the cheaper labor of the outside world, and wages to-day are from two to ten times the amount received elsewhere. Through our financial legislation the wage-earner has always received a full dollar, and his savings and investments have been fully protected. Not only have wages constantly increased and hours of labor been reduced, but sanitary conditions have been constantly improved and inspections and liability laws have given to our working men and women conditions and advantages better, very much better, than in any other country.

All the great national labor laws on our statute books were put there by the Republican party.

Daughter—Oh, I kissed him, too, so as to make the people think we were relatives.

JUDGE PEAK'S DECISION.

Misconstructed by Newspapers and the Public Generally did not Pass on Unit Law.

(Shelby Record.) The newspapers throughout Kentucky have had big headlines the last few days in which it is made to appear that Judge Peak had at New Castle, declared the county unit law unconstitutional. In this they are all mistaken. The validity of the law was not a question and the decision was as to the right of J. T. Scott, the plaintiff, who had applied for license to sell liquor in New Castle vs. the trustees of that town. The question was one of law as to whether or not they had a right under the circumstances to refuse Scott a license. The question involved New Castle alone and had nothing whatever to do with the constitutionality of the county unit law. Judge Peak decided that the trustees of New Castle had no right under the law to refuse Scott's application. The defendants will take the case to the Court of Appeals.

Cactus and Corn Cobs.

(Hines and Farm.) We are hearing much that is full of encouragement concerning the various processes for making alcohol out of the waste products of the farm.

Just now we are assured in rather a vague and general way that it will be possible to make alcohol from corn cobs at a price heretofore deemed impossible. We are also told that the much abused cactus of the western plains can be used with even better results than the corn cob in the production of alcohol.

Our readers will recall the fact that Congress has recently arranged to free the alcohol used as fuel or lights or for commercial purposes from the tax now imposed upon whisky. The intention was to encourage the use of alcohol for fuel and to encourage its production from the waste of the farm. The law does not take effect until January 1, 1907, but on all hands experiments are being made, and the indications now are that a new, convenient and economical fuel will be developed not only from corn cobs and cactus, but from various other products of the farm, and that it will add something at least to the income of the American farmer.

Be Charitable.

When you are judging me. You are only human yourself.

In dispensing justice to employees. When you make a mistake there is no one to take you to task and threaten you with instant dismissal.

In criticising the motives of others. Perhaps the man whom you think spent a lot of time trying to foil your plans at your expenses are too busy to give you a thought.

In spoken judgments. To hint that others are thieves and robbers one more suspicion is to play fast and loose with the most cherished of all possessions—character.

With the irritability of your employer. Remember he has to bear the responsibility, while you have only to execute orders. His bark is worse than his bark.

Definition of Lady.

A Chicago man who described a dinner with Charles Dana Gibson at Prince's theater, in London, said the room was full of beautifully grown women with bare arms and necks who smoked cigarettes with their coffee. The Americans present, of course, talked about the ladies' smoking and some inquired if a lady would smoke, which suggested to some one else the definition of the word "lady." Mr. Gibson was asked for his definition and said: "A lady is a woman who always remembers others and never forgets herself."

That's Where You Laugh.

When a man tells you a funny story, always laugh heartily, whether you see the point or not. Then he will feel in duty bound to laugh at the funny stories that you tell him in return.

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS

The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it is, in fact, the popular dictionary thoroughly revised in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and more comprehensive requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever known. It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judgment of the highest authority in accuracy of definition; and that in the future it will be the source of constant reference.

CALIFORNIA SALTON SEA

Threatens to Extend Over Vast Territory

Unless Means Are Taken to Divert Course of Colorado River.

Who is responsible for the creation of the Salton Sea, in Southern California, which already covers an area of 400 square miles, and threatens to spread over 2,000 square miles if some means of diverting the Colorado river cannot be devised.

This question is perplexing Mexican and American diplomatists, but, for the time being, diplomatic representations have been suspended, and both the United States and Mexico are bending every effort to check the river, which has been accidentally turned from its course through the efforts of the California Development Company to irrigate lands in Northern Mexico and Southern California.

Interesting complications of an international nature are threatened when the two Governments attempt to settle their differences and make good the damage which has been wrought by diverting the Colorado from its channel. The California Development Company originally tapped the river below Yuma, Ariz., and carried water from Arizona through a canal into Northern Mexico and back into a great valley in Southern California.

In 1904 it was found that this canal was inadequate to supply water required for the irrigation project, and a Mexican corporation, controlled by California Development Company was authorized by Mexico to take water from the Colorado in Mexico, a short distance south of Yuma.

The irrigation canal was only one-fourth of a mile from a river at the point in Mexico where a ditch was cut through the sandy bank of the river connecting with the great irrigation canal.

No gates were provided, and with the river diverted from its channel, cut away its bank, and went raging into the lowlands of California far below the sea level. Repeated attempts have been made to turn the river back into its old channel, but without success.

Several small towns are now beneath the waters which the Colorado has poured into the basin and in many places only the tops of the railway telegraph poles indicate where the roadbed formerly was.

In the lowest part of the sink the water is now seventy feet deep. Failure to control the river would give this country and Mexico a lake comparable to the great lakes separating the United States and Canada. At present the lake is greater than any body of water wholly within the United States, except Salt Lake and Lake Michigan.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all others diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and thereof requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Deputy Marshal Bennett Resigns.

(Washburne Messenger.) Deputy United States Marshal L. P. Bennett has resigned his position and the resignation has been accepted, but no successor is yet appointed. Mr. Bennett's reason for giving up work is a plan to leave with a few days to settle in Oklahoma. There are numerous applicants for the position from all over the district, but the new deputy has not yet been named. As a result of the delay in selecting a successor of Bennett the local office is to some extent handi-

A Wonderful Record.

As made up by improved and exact processes Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapse, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. It cures the backache, periodical headaches, the dragging-down distress in the pelvic region, the pain and tenderness over the lower abdominal region, dries up the pelvic catarrhal drain, so disagreeable and weakening, and overcomes every form of weakness incident to the organs distinctly feminine.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, the makers of which are not afraid to print their formula on the bottle wrapper, thus taking their patrons into their full confidence. It is the only medicine for women, every ingredient of which has the strongest possible endorsement of the most eminent medical practitioners and writers of our day, recommending it for the diseases for which "Favorite Prescription" is used. It is the only put-up medicine for women, sold through druggists, which does not contain a large percentage of alcohol, so harmful in the long run, especially to delicate women. It has more genuine cures to its credit than all other medicines for women combined, having saved thousands of sufferers from the operating table and the surgeon's knife. It has restored delicate, weak women to strong and vigorous health and vitality, making motherhood possible, where there was barrenness before, thereby brightening and making happy many thousands of homes by the advent of little ones to strengthen the marital bonds and add sunshine where gloom and despondency had reigned before.

Write to Dr. R. V. Pierce. He will send you good, fatherly, professional advice in a plain, sealed envelope, absolutely free. Address him at Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets do not gripe. They effectually cleanse the system of accumulated impurities. The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, by Dr. Pierce, 1000 pages, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address as above.

Careful Milking.

Every milkster thinks he knows how to milk, but if the cows could express their opinions they would probably intimate that a few lessons in the gentle art were not unnecessary. It is not fair treatment to sit down to a cow and tug and haul on her until she steps around in the stall and acts as if she were badly hurt. Sometimes a cow will stop eating and wait until the ordeal is over before she will resume her meal. The cow that does that is not comfortable, and an uncomfortable cow will not do her best for her owner. Some men have a way of milking that so pleases the cow that she clearly shows she enjoys it. These are the men whose method should be copied. Observing them, we see that they never shout at, strike nor otherwise ill-treat their cows. They sit down quietly, take hold of the cow's teats gently, no matter how much of a hurry they may be in, and begin to draw the milk without pressing too hard, for they know they are touching her at a tender point; then they keep steadily at it until the last drop is out. It pays to milk carefully.

When a horse is so overworked it lies down and in other ways declares its inability to go further, you would consider it criminal to use force. Many a man of humane impulses, who would not willingly harm a kitchen, is guilty of cruelty where his own stomach is concerned. Overdriven, overworked, what it needs is something that will digest the food eaten and help the stomach to recuperate. Something like Kodol for dyspepsia that is sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

A Woman Who Was Happy.

"One of the happiest women I ever knew," said the woman, "was a rich girl who married a poor man. She declared that the only thing that could make her happy was this marriage, and it was ideal in every way. Both of them are now dead and the daughter is married to the son of an ex-governor of a southern state. I hope she is as happy as was her mother through all her married life."

A Feat Indeed.

Susie had tried the teacher's patience sorely, and when the latter looked up and saw the little girl chewing gum, with her feet sprawling into the aisle, she said: "Susie Jones, take that gum out of your mouth and put your feet in!"

KENTUCKY MASONS

Vote to Exclude Wholesale or Retail Liquor Dealers From the Order.

Never, probably, in the history of the Grand Lodge of Masons in Kentucky, extending back to the last year of the Eighteenth century, was so much discussion caused over a single question as that following the introduction at the meeting of the Grand Lodge last week of the resolution, which was passed, providing that during the next twelve months no one who is engaged in the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage shall be received into the order. The resolution's passage made it one of the regulations, and the same provision is contained in an amendment to the constitution, which was by necessity compelled to lay over for a year. The sentiment is such, however, that it is probable that the amendment will be adopted.

The resolution was presented by Past Grand Master Wilhelm. The Committee on Jurisprudence, of which Past Grand Master Witt is Chairman, proposed the question as a constitutional amendment, which would have deferred the question for a year. After spirited debate, in which Grand Master Veach asked for immediate action, and in which only a few defended those who are engaged in the liquor business, it was decided to adopt the resolution, and then to adopt the committee's report, thus putting the provision into practice for a year, in order to give the members of the Grand Lodge a chance to see its effect, and to enable them to vote intelligently upon the constitutional amendment next year.

Jack Rabbits Stop Trains.

In Texas the Jack rabbit is no longer looked upon as a means of good sport. He has increased by the millions until he threatens not only to devour all the vegetation of hundreds of square miles in the southwestern section of the state but here lately, spurred on by desperate hunger, he has been holding up railway trains, by the simple process of getting himself killed by the thousands, and so greasing up the rails that the most powerful locomotives have been forced to come to a stop, while the train hands have gone forth and cleaned up the right of way.

Hunger is causing millions of jack rabbits to come closer to the more thickly settled sections of Texas, and where the wire fences are used to keep them out they have started burrowing underneath. The bright glare of the locomotive headlight has attracted them along the railroad line at night. This is proved by the fact the railroads have had trouble with their trains from the jack rabbits only at night. During the day the rabbits attend strictly to making entrance into the farm lands. The Texas legislature has decided to spend over $100,000 next year in an endeavor to stem the tide of the jack rabbit invasion. It is hoped to find some disease germs with which the rabbits can be inoculated and so most of them will be swept away. The United States Government will also be asked in the scientific search for some method of killing off the pests.

A Loving Mother Dead.

Mrs. Sarah P. Barrett, wife of T. J. Barrett, deceased, of Barrett's Ferry, Ohio county, Ky., died at the home of her son, W. W. Lloyd, Oct. 9, 1906, at the age of 81 years, 5 months and 3 days. She was born in the state of North Carolina. She came here with her father at an early day and settled in Grayson county, near the Falls of Rough. She joined the Christian church a number of years ago and has been faithful to her church all these years in her illness. While she was agonizing and struggling for life she seemed to not fear the Jungtomb. Everything seemed to be alright with her. She was twice married. Her first husband was William J. Lloyd. They were given in that union five children, three boys and two girls. Four of the children are yet living. The two daughters, one the wife of W. H. Foreman, of Hardinsburg, Ky., and the other, the wife of G. W. Thurber, of Eureka, Ind.; the two boys, W. W. and John P. Lloyd, of Ohio county, Ky. The second union the Lord gave her three children, two boys and one girl, one of which is living yet, Thomas W. Barrett. All of her surviving children were present when she departed this life, also many relatives and friends. She was taken to her home church for funeral services, which were conducted by Rev. Brandon at 11 o'clock. They then all followed her to the family graveyard, where the children and friends were permitted to look down in the cold limits of the tomb with tearful eyes and throbbing hearts and only say: "Good-bye, mother, for the time being. You will only sleep until the resurrection morn." We are truly glad there is no one in Heaven to say good-bye. She was loved by all who knew her. May the Lord bless the sorrowing children and friends. W. H. F.

A Socker.

(Elizabethtown News.) The Mayfield Messenger points with pride to the fact that the school per capita has been increased under Governor Beckham's administration and gives the Governor the credit for it. If the Messenger would investigate the facts it would find that the increase is due to the fact of taking two cents from the sinking fund and one and a half cents from the general expenditure fund and adding them to the school fund and not to any wisdom upon the part of the Governor. An investigation of the auditor's reports will disclose the fact that with the same tax rate for school purposes under Beckham's administration as existed under Brown's the school fund would not have been any larger. The increased school fund is due entirely to the fact that where former administrations had a tax rate of twenty-two and a half cents the present administration has a tax rate of twenty-six and a half cents for school purposes.

Examine the label on your paper, if it is not correct notify us.

ONLY ten days until the election.

OHIO COUNTY should give Mr. Heavrin at least 1,000 majority November 6.

We have heard no good reason assigned by any one for voting against the bond issue.

HUGHES and Hearst are setting the woods a fire in New York with their hot shots.

UNCLE JOE CANNON not only "stands pat" but is able to show what he is standing on.

Now that the ice season is over, the ice man will begin to arrange a shortage for another year.

THE Courier-Journal says it continues to stand pat on Bryan. It used to stand pat on his neck.

IN Kansas, they used to cry for a $50 per capita. Now they have $93 per capita and are still crying for more.

WHEN Mr. Cortelyou gets to be Secretary of the Treasury, will he still hold on to that National Committee Chairmanship?

A NEW YORK man wants a divorce because his wife talks too much. If that is sufficient grounds in New York, what is to become of the Dakota industry?

HEARST elected Governor of New York, will demand and receive the Presidential nomination of the Independence Leaguers, and then of the Democrats.

THE betting in New York is 4 to 1 on Hughes. This is said to be pretty strong evidence that the Republican nominee will win. However, bets do not win elections.

WE shall be very much mistaken, if the voters of this country attempt to kill the goose that laid the golden egg, by electing a congress pledged to demoralize existing tariff laws.

REMEMBER, when you vote for Mr. Johnson, you help to promote a man who, last spring, voted to disfranchise Ohio county at Frankfort. Do unto him, as he did unto us, and make it strong.

THE people of Hartford Magisterial district will make no mistake in electing Harvey Williams a member of the Fiscal Court. He is a young man with progressive ideas, and at the same time safe and conservative.

WHEN Governor Beckham calls a special session of the Legislature, to arrange the lid some more for Louisville, he should not forget to include the redistricting question. Thus avoiding two extra sessions in one year.

SHOULD Gov. Beckham win, the condition of Hon. Urey Woodson will be pitiful to behold. He will simply be compelled to retire to some secluded spot, and write an abusive editorial against Caleb Powers.

If Senator McCreary is to be believed, Gov. Beckham is not fit to send to the United States Senate to represent Kentucky. If Gov. Beckham tells the truth, Senator Mc-Creary ought to be retired to private life. We are inclined to think both are right, and the only chance to get a worthy representative will be to select a Republican Legislature next year, and satisfy both of them.

GOVERNOR BECKHAM will be our town to-day to speak in the interest of his candidacy for United States Senator. He will no doubt be greeted by a large crowd of his followers in this county. He should be given a respectful hearing by those who differ with him, as well as those who are his supporters. He is a Fourth district man and this, in a sense, his own territory. We understand the Governor makes a dignified presentation of his claims, free from abuse or acrimony.

PARTISANSHIP RUN TO SEED.

The Muhlenberg Argus, a new Democratic paper published at Central City, as a campaign sheet, in the interest of Richardson's candidacy for Congress, is in danger of biting itself, and dying from its venom. Its abuse of Dr. A. D. James should make him at least 500 votes in Muhlenberg county—if it reaches that many.

For utter reckless abandon in its utterances the Argus takes the cake. It has the hardihood to charge up the hard times and panic of 1893-4 and 5 to the McKinley tariff law. Most people have understood that the Democrats were in power then, with a president and both branches of Congress, and that we were trying to exist under the succulent (?) Wilson tariff law, a return to which the Argus invites us.

However the new light at Central City don't think Republicans amount to much any way. Because there is some objections over there to the dog tax, the Argus classes all dog loving, taxless people, as strong Republicans. Listen gentle reader to its wail and you will wonder how it happens that the writer does not love the dog, unless you conclude that he is simply sour on the world and all of his kind.

Republicans are now raising a howl about the dog tax, notwithstanding the fact that the sheep industry in the sheep raising part of the state has been nearly ruined by worthless dogs. They seem to prefer these useless canines to good fat sheep and it is usually the case, the more worthless curs a man has and the less of other kind of tax he pays, the stronger Republican he is and the louder he howls about the dog tax. We think if they will look over Dr. James' record they will find where he once voted for a dog tax and that ought to mollify their anger a little.

Paramount Everywhere.

The issue in the First Congress District of West Virginia is thus defined by the Wheeling Intelligencer: Since 1896 the wages of every class of workmen in the Ohio Valley have advanced; new mills and factories have been built, and thousands of new homes erected to house the men who work in the mills and factories. Business has been profitable beyond all previous experience, and labor has been steadily employed at increasing wages and shortening hours.

These are some of the fruits of the Protective Tariff system. Under it the industries of Wheeling and vicinity have been created and built up, waxing in prosperity each year.

The voters of the First Congressional District must say by their votes whether they wish to continue this beneficent system, or whether they wish to abolish it and substitute a Tariff for revenue with its public free soup kitchen reminiscences. It is not hard to predict what their answer will be.

That is equally the issue in every Congress district. Whether to keep the prosperity we now have, or to turn over the control of national affairs to the party whose success at the polls has never failed to bring the reverse of prosperity, is the question in all parts of the country. It must remain the paramount question so long as there exists an organized opposition to the cardinal policy of Protection to American labor and industry.

Notice.

SAM BACH, HARTFORD, KENTUCKY.

FOUR FEET DEEP

Is Snow in the West--Traffic is Delayed and Suffering Intense.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 24--Snow, wind and cold have extended over nearly the entire country between the Rocky Mountains and Missouri river to-day, causing heavy losses of live stock and late fruit. Telegraph wires have been prostrated and railroad schedules disarranged.

The storm is almost unprecedented for severity at this season of the year, and takes rank, according to the Weather bureau, with the snowfall on April 22 and 23, 1885. Up to 6 o'clock this evening about twenty inches of snow has fallen in Denver much of which had melted and indications were that snow would continue to fall to-night.

Some places on the eastern slope of the mountains the snowfall measures from three to four feet. While the temperature on the plains has fluctuated from twenty to thirty degrees above zero, it has been much colder at higher altitudes.

At Emery Gap on the Colorado Southern Railroad, snow drifted nine feet deep, and traffic was practically tied up to-day. Two railroad snow plows were sent out to open the road.

SOLDIER'S DASH

Wins Morgantown, Kentucky. Beauty as His Bride.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 23--It became known to-day that Col. Benjamin Von Phul, member of one of the oldest families in St. Louis, was married secretly, October 13 to Miss Nancy Mulford Taylor, of Morgantown, Ky.

She had been in New York with relatives, and was returning to her Kentucky home when Col Von Phul met her at Union Station a week ago last Friday. They had been friends for a year. At the station, Col Von Phul renewed his suit, told her of his plans, and begged that she marry him and go to New York at once.

His courtship was carried on with the dash that won his distinction as a soldier. He was not to be denied, but it was Friday, and she would not think of being married on Friday. The Colonel pleaded that she remain over until next day. She consented and the next day was the thirteenth. Miss Taylor hadn't thought of that and her suitor carefully refrained from enlightening her, so they were married at the Centenary M. E. church. The bride-groom, though in the sixties, has shaved off his gray mustache and now resembles a young man.

LAST CALL

For Taxes in Ohio County.

You only have until the 31st day of October to pay your taxes without interest and penalty. After this date, under the acts of 1906, passed by the last Legislature, you will have to pay 18 per cent. interest and penalty, and also Clerk's cost for tax warrant. So don't fail to pay in time to save this extra cost. R. B. MARTIN, Sheriff Ohio County.

Little Girl's Composition on the Cow.

"A cow is an animal with four legs on the under side, one on each corner. The tail is longer than the legs, but its not used to stand on. The cow kills flies with her tail. A cow has big ears that wiggle, so does the tail. A cow is bigger than a calf, but not as big as an elephant. She is made small so she can go in a barn door when nobody is lookin'. Some cows are black and some hook. A dog was hooked once. She tossed the dog that worrie! the cat that killed the rat. Black cows give white milk, so do other cows. Milk-men sell milk to buy their little girls dresses, which they put water in and chalk. Beef is cow, but not before it is killed. That is a joke. Cows chew cuds, and each cow finds its own chew. Then they swallow their chew and chase other chews to chew. That sounds funny. I guess it's a joke too. That is all there is about cows."

THE POOL ROOM.

Will you listen to me, Bill,
And hear what I have to say;
The newest thing in this old town,
Is the pool-room over the way.
Here, I went to that place, Bill,
Just to watch those ivory balls play,
So that cushioned table made for them,
With pockets in which they stay.
That proprietor said to me, Bill,
Have a seat, my friend, will you?
The game is full at present,
But soon you may have a cue.
That is a cue, young man, Bill,
A polite and polished gent,
But when he said cue to me,
I didn't know what he meant.
Of course, I took a seat, Bill,
Just to see how that thing went
A fellow should always know
For what his money is spent.
They play that game with balls, Bill,
Have cue to push them along;
Over a long six-pocket table,
And something white to rub on,
I saw them play a game, Bill,
And they cue made those balls jump,
They shot them an everesting hard,
That they fairly made me jump.
The way they start that game, Bill,
They place the balls in a frame,
With another ball they break,
I think "cue" ball is its name.
They spoke about looking, Bill,
And scratching and all such stuff
Until I actually began to think
They were going to be rough.
Then one man laughed aloud, Bill,
I asked him what the matter could be
When another one said, he once cue
For a scratch and made, you see.
For two long hours I watched, Bill,
While the games were being played
It sure takes mind and plenty
To know how plays should be made.
When our game was over, Bill,
Our fellow just said to me
Take cue and try your hand
For a slick pooler you be,
But I've never been accused, Bill,
Of putting them in those racks
Because they are too large to go there
To give you the solemn facts.
People should not think strange, Bill,
That such a game is allowed
For it's only fun and amusement
To a jolly, good-natured crowd.
When the days are cold and rainy, Bill,
'Spose we have a little game of pool
'Tis fun and merriment
For it don't break any little rule.

Dr. and Mrs. Wm. Forman gave a pleasant outing last Saturday on their elegant Rough river packet, "We Three," to a number of invited guests. The party left the Hartford wharf at 9 a. m. and landed a short distance above the mouth of NoCreek where a splendid lunch was spread in a beautiful beech grove. Members of the party engaged in searching for nuts and gathering ferns, until time to make the return trip. All report a most enjoyable day and a fine dinner. The guests are under lasting obligations to Dr. and Mrs. Forman for the outing.

BARBEE ENTERTAINMENT

At Court Hall Tuesday Night Well Attended and Highly Appreciated.

Miss Nannie Barbee, of Danville, Ky., gave a recital consisting of negro and Kentucky Mountain dialect stories at Court Hall Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Ladies New Methodist church society. It was well attended and her impersonations were received with the highest appreciation and enjoyment.

Miss Barbee's program consisted for the most part in recitals delineating primitive negro life and character in which she depicts the greatest oddities characteristic of the race, yet her mountain dialect stories are also good and were highly enjoyed. In fact the whole two hours recital was continuous humor and fun.

The ladies cleared a neat little sum on the entertainment.

Public Sale.

On Saturday, October 27, 1906, we will sell at public Auction about twenty nice building lots in Centertown, Ky., fronting on Main and Plum streets, two squares from the depot on the M. H. & E. R. R., which is now under construction.

Centertown is a nice, clean little town of about 300 people, and is an ideal place to locate for health, happiness and business.

After the sale, three disinterested judges will be selected to look over the list and consider the location and sale-price of all lots sold, and award a free lot to the purchaser of the lot that they consider the poorest investment. Free lunch will be served on the ground.

Terms: One-third cash, balance on twelve months' time, with 6 per cent. interest, or one-third in thirty days, with approved security and balance on twelve months time.

OHIO COUNTIAN

Makes Strong Speech at the National Meeting of the A. S. of E.

East St. Louis, Ill., Oct. 24--The feature of the day's session of the third annual convention of the American Society of equity, which is composed of farmers, was the address of M. F. Sharp, of Hartsville, Ky. He strongly urged the farmers to perfect an organization.

"The trusts and combines, which are the agencies of the infernal regions, call us pigs, hogsheads, rubes and mossbacks, and say that even if we do organize, we won't stick," he said: "I tell you that when organizing raises the price of products it is the best sticking plaster in the world. I know the farmers will stick. Equity means a fair deal. All manufacturing industries fix the price of their products and know what price they are going to get for them."

"The farmer, the backbone of a nation and the world's greatest producer, has been going on the theory that he will take whatever he can get for his products. Equity intends that the farmer shall take place with the world's producers and fix a profitable price for his products. That can only be done by a plan of marketing products to control and regulate the market prices."

To-day's session was devoted principally to addresses along the line of forming an agricultural organization to fix and maintain prices on farm products.

College Notes.

A lot of new supplementary reading books has been introduced in the school this year, which is not only pleasing to the children, but inspiring as well. It gives to children a wide range of useful information, cultivates in them a taste for good literature and a habit of reading, and above all, trains them to be good readers.

Teachers have recognized the impossibility of making good readers of children by confining them strictly to the adopted series of readers, hence they urge the necessity of a variety of interesting and useful reading books for children.

The first quarter of school will close next week with quarterly examinations in all departments. Immediately thereafter report cards will be sent out to all parents to be carefully examined, signed and returned. Parents are urged to give special attention to every item on the card and to report to the teachers any unsatisfactory information which the card may contain.

We are glad to announce to parents that the school is better graded, pupils are more accurately classified, and the school is in better condition in every way than it was last year.

Among those who visited home last week were: Miss Etta Taylor; Messrs. Scott Ambrose, Tom Hamilton, Owen Brown and Owen Jones.

Mr. Ben Patterson, who was sick at home for several weeks, has, we are happy to say, regained his health and entered school again.

Among the recent matriculates are: Forest Salmon, of Daviess county and Weston Malakon, of Louisiana. Several new students are expected to enter at the opening of the second quarter.

Mr. Sylvester Watson, of Grayson county, visited his daughter, Miss Orney, last week.

The furnace has been temporarily repaired by Messrs. Gunther & McDonald, of Owensboro.

Many of the students are studying harder than ever this week for next week examinations will take the place of class work.

Owing to the splendid weather, quite a number of non-resident pupils spent Saturday and Sunday at their homes.

Cupid "Wid de Umbrell"

BY ROSSER W. COBBE.

(Copyright, 1906, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)
"Aw, lace it out, Cal. Gee—it makes me sick to see dem big lobsters bunt de ball."

Jimmy spoke to no one in particular—to everyone in general. You do not have to be introduced to open a conversation at a baseball game.

"Hit it—hit it. Run, you, ice wagon, run. Police—police—stop dat guy—he'll try to make a homer out of a single."

Jimmy stopped suddenly, feeling that everyone in the stand was looking at him. Then he said in a more natural tone of voice to the man who sat beside him:

"Dat guy is always overrulin' de bag. He'll get caught directly and de Sox need dis run. Dey'll lose today, dough, I s'pose. Dey always do on Ladies' day."

"Come on you. We want a hit. Look at dat guy run! Slide, you lobster, slide. Dat's de boy. Nix, nix, NIX, not in a hundred. I guess he don't know how to steal bases, hey? Well—Come on, Kido, just a little hit. ZING, dat's de one. Home—come home, you elephant. Well, what do you tink of dat? What? Did you say 'Out?' Oh my, oh my. Robber. Soak him, Cal."

The poor misguided individual known as the umpire had seen fit to call the gentleman on the bases "out." Hence Jimmy's disgust. The home players, themselves, did not quite agree with the verdict of the official, and one in particular was so strenuous in his methods of showing his disapproval that he was immediately detached from the game and dispatched to the club house.

"What—again?" Jimmy had again come into possession of his voice, from which he had momentarily been separated. (A piece of "Iry J's" popcorn in its descent had become slightly nixed as to its point of destination.) "What—again? Gee, dey coatin' got it in for dat guy Cal. Ev'ry day he gets sent to de bench. De line o' talk he hands dem umpires must be fierce. Dat score would 'a' tied de game. Gee, it's goin' to rain."

Rain it did, and as the shower grew in violence, the umpire "called" the game for 15 minutes, at the end of which time, no cessation in the downpour appearing to be likely, he faced the grandstand, hat in hand, and made this announcement, in his deep, foghorn voice:

"Game called. Rain."
Then he solemnly walked to the clubhouse, preceded by the players and followed by the jeers of the crowd.

Meanwhile, Jimmie of the bleachers had not been idle. Beneath the grand stand he had ten or twelve more or less disreputable looking umbrellas, and these he now drew forth and proceeded to brush and "slick-up." Rain on "Ladies' day!" Why it was like finding money, and when the crowd began to come out of the main exit, Jimmie's profits began.

"Umbrell's. Get a umbrell'. Don't let de ladies get wet. Yessir, one dollar. One bone. One buck. Cheap at any money in dis kind o' wedder."

The customers generally "kicked" at the price, but Jimmie expected that. However, umbrellas at one dollar a piece were better than umbrellas not at all, and Jimmie was the Trust.

"Bet I could 'a' sold 40 to-day," he thought. He was offering the last one to the crowd.

"Yes, ma'am. One dollar. No, ma'am, dat's what I get for dem. Only 80 cents? Can't help it."

"But you are surely here every afternoon, and to-morrow I'll come and give you a dollar beside. See—this is all I have." The young lady emptied the contents of her little purse into her hand.

"Nix. I hoid dat kind o' talk before, and it don't sound no good to me."

Then Jimmie looked up into her face.

"You don't look, dough," he continued with surprising frankness, "as dough you'd do a guy out a anything."

She was very pretty, this young woman; and Jimmie, who had never talked to a "real lady" before, lost his head. He knew just as soon as he had seen those eyes that he was going to discount the "umbrell" to her, and when Jimmie got to taking chances on money there was "somethin' doin'," for Jimmie was a business man.

Just at that moment "De Guy" came. That is what Jimmie always called him afterward. He was big and broad, and young and good to look at, Jimmie thought, and without a glance at the girl he said:

"What do you want for the umbrella, Kid?"

"I don't know whedder it's for sale or not," Jimmie answered.

"Here's a dollar. Hurry up." Jimmie looked at the dollar and was nearly lost. Then he looked at the girl, and—

"Nope. Dis lady is buyin' dis."

"Oh, I beg your pardon," de Guy said, and then both he and the young lady turned red, coughed and looked away. Then Jimmie with that great head for business, which will some day make his name well known, made a proposition.

"Maybe you two live clost to each other, an' 'f y'do w'y don't you go home togedder?"

Then events began to happen that kept Jimmie "guessing" for many a day. He was telling his mother about it that night at the supper table.

"Den I guess de two o' dem knowed each other, 'cause de Guy says, kind o' stiff like:

"'F I mite be p'mitted, Miss Gray, an' she seemed willin', only she wouldn't talk. So I seen dat dey was goin' my way, so I butts in. I says:

"'Wot did you tink o' de game? and de Guy says:

"O, all rite."

"I says: 'It was a shame dat Cal got put out o' de game. He might 'a' made de winnin' run."

"Den de Guy kinda looks at de Fairy, an' says:

"Dat's the same way wit' me, son. I was in 'De Game' once, but I got 'put out' just w'en I tought I was makin' de winnin' run."

"Well, says I, 'if de umpire would 'a' give Cal de chanet I bet he could 'a' squared hisself."

"Dat's de way wit' me, boy," says de Guy. 'De umpire wouldn't give me de chanet."

"Oh, I says, 'you play too? What's your posish'?"

"Well, he says, 'I used to play foist, but I guess I'm on de bench now."

"Up to dis time de Fairy nint said a word, but now she butts in."

"Say, she says to me. 'In a ball game don't dey never give de players anodder chanet w'en dey've been put out o' de game?"

"Nope, I says, 'it's against de rules. De rules says dat de umpire can't change his decision."

"Well, de Fairy says, 'ain't dere ever any 'ceptions dat proves de rule?"

"Not in baseball, I says."

"Well, says she, and she looks de Guy right in de face, 'dere may not be in baseball, but dere is in life."

"Well, you ought to 'a' seen dat Guy. He don't do a t'ing but dig down in his jeans an' hand me a big five-spot, an' grab me by de mitt an' shake it up an' down, an' slap me on de back for a fare-de-well, an' it's got me bent to deat' if I knows what was bitin' him. Well, anyway, w'en I left 'em it had stopped rainin', and de sun was shinin' and de Guy was grinnin' and de Fairy was smilin' and everyt'ing was lovely. De Guy shakes hands wit' me again, an' he says:

"Good-by, ole pal. Good-by, ole Cupid wid de Umbrell."

HASN'T FOUND IT OUT.

The Heart of Muchacha.

BY CHARLES W. CUNO.

(Copyright, 1906, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

For the past two trips the stage that carried the bullion sacks from the Golden Nugget mine to Sonora had been robbed by a lone highwayman. Haskell, superintendent of the mine, stood at the window of his dingy little assay office and revolved the matter in his mind.

Another consignment was ready for its trip down the mountainside and its immediate shipment was imperative. The men, mostly Americans of the rougher class that had drifted down into this seemingly God-forsaken Mexican country, were already grumbling about their delayed pay and another week's waiting might provoke anything from a riot to a massacre. The guard that had been sent with the bullion had each time proved himself a coward. Haskell knew not whom to send.

Into the range of his vision came the graceful figure of Dolores, daughter of Senora Valdes, the half Mexican boarding housekeeper. She was the one beautiful thing in all that barren wilderness.

"Muchacha," little child, her mother called her still, although she had grown into slender womanhood. And "Muchacha" she was called by all the rough, tender-hearted miners in the camp. They worshiped her, perhaps the one thing Mexican that they did not hate in the whole district of Sonora.

They hated the land, the Mexicans, and even the swift-scudding sand lizards, but the Gold Nugget mine paid its men well, so they lingered, toiled on and loved "Muchacha." But of all of them there was but one upon whom she would even cast a glance.

"The Boy," they called him. He had drifted in from one knew where, a reckless daredevil, whose face was so fair and boy-like in contrast to their rough skins that "The Boy" seemed as natural to say as if he really had not reached man's estate.

And it was to meet "The Boy" that Dolores was tripping down the steep trail to the mine tunnel.

The moment Haskell saw her, an idea popped into his head. He knew "The Boy," knew his courage, admired his strength and knew also that he could shoot straight. Undoubtedly he was the man for the bullion shipment. Of the man's antecedents he knew nothing. He must trust him to be honest and trust him he would.

He opened the door. "Muchacha," he called, "Muchacha!"

The girl came obedient to his call. "Will you tell El Senor 'Boy' that I wish to see him," he said in Mexican patios.

"Si, Senor," the girl said, willingly. She took a few steps, hesitated and turned back.

"Is it may I ask the noble Senor a question?"

Haskell nodded.

"Is it that the Senor wished him to go with the bullion to-morrow?"

Haskell smiled. "Hush! Not a word to anyone," he said. "But how did you guess it, Muchacha?"

The girl colored beneath her dark skin. "My heart told me," she said, defiantly, shaking out her black curls.

"Listen, noble Senor," she said, stubbornly, "he must not go, for if he is killed, I will be as one dead. My heart will be broken."

"But the bullion. The men are getting ugly. I need a brave man like you 'Boy.' He must go. Why is it? Do you fear that he will turn toward like the rest?"

The girl drew back with an injured air.

"He," she cried, disdainfully, "it is not that that I fear. Dios mio, it is only that he will be too brave."

"Then he is the man that I want."

The girls lips tightened. "Listen, Senor," she said, "have you forgotten the day that I warned you of ugly Pedro and his wicked knife?"

Haskell's face softened. "No, Muchacha mia, that I have not," he said, earnestly, "you saved my life that day. I said then if ever you should ask of me a favor that I could grant, I would grant it. I will keep my promise, but if you ask this of me whom can I get to take the bullion to Sonora?"

The girl stood hesitant and then turned her face up to his with a great resolve in her eyes.

"I, Gran' Senor, it is I that will do it."

"You," he exclaimed, incredulously.

"Think you I cannot shoot?" she cried, fearful, now that she had made the resolve, that her request would not be granted. "Look!" She seized the pistol that hung in its holster by his side and leveled at a bald eagle that hovered almost overhead. At the first shot the bird paused in its flight, quivered and an instant after came tumbling earthward. As he fell five more shots rang out in quick succession and each time a scattering of feathers told that her aim was true. Triumphant she handed the weapon back to the superintendent.

"Is the Senor convinced?" she cried. "I am brave and besides, would the bandit hurt a woman?" she queried.

"But—"

"Have you forgotten your promise? It is I that ask it."

"Child, Muchacha," Haskell replied with troubled voice, "I have promised. God forgive me, I did not know you would ask this."

"But you will keep your promise?"

"If you insist, Muchacha, I cannot refuse you. It shall be as you say, but—but, my heart misgives me. I—I—, if I could leave this cursed place I would go myself."

"I will not be hurt and I have your promise, have I not?" she cried, gayly. "Have no fear for me, Senor mio; for shame, not to trust your Muchacha. To-morrow it is at nine then? And," laughingly shaking her finger at him, "tell it to no one. Good night, Senor, Buenas Noches."

She waved her hand to him as she tripped quickly down the mountain side, fearful that, in spite of his promise, he would recall his words and refuse her permission to go on the daring trip.

The next day the stage rumbled away with but one occupant, Muchacha and her bullion sacks. To her side the superintendent had strapped his pistol. Down through the canyon the stage rumbled, twisting and whirling almost over the many abysses. Then came a leveler stretch of country and the cowardly driver whipped up his horses, for it was just around the next bend that the robber had last held up the stage.

The horses rounded the bend in safety and the driver was just drawing a long breath of relief when—Ping!—the off horse fell with a bullet through his heart. The stage stopped with a lurch and, as it did so, a masked man sprang from the shelter of a rock and advanced toward the stage, a pistol leveled in either hand.

An instant afterward the door of the stage opened and Muchacha stood in the doorway. As she did so a spurt of flame came from the pistol in her hand and the bandit fell dead. Laughing lightly, she ran to the prostrate form and snatched away the mask.

Her hand sought her heart. She recoiled. She almost cried out. It was "The Boy."

A moment only did the shock weaken her. She turned and walked steadily to the stage.

"Vamos! drive on!" she cried. "We must be in Sonora by three o'clock."

The Monastery at Sonora holds a Sister whose face is strangely like that of "Muchacha."

BUSINESS COLLEGES ARE FAILURES

In small cities and towns, because:

1. There is not a sufficient population to support a GOOD school;
2. Such schools are usually conducted by persons who are NOT qualified, or who make it a practice to travel about and deliver their lessons;
3. There are few if any opportunities for their graduates to secure employment in such localities;
4. The THOROUGH business colleges are located in the larger cities and are conducted by persons who are qualified;
5. The graduates of business colleges in small cities or towns can not secure employment in large cities when thrown in competition with the THOROUGH graduates of high-class schools, as business men have no time to experiment with incompetents.

Therefore, be wise. Send for the finest page catalogue ever issued by a commercial school, before deciding to throw away your money for a worthless training at some cheap school.

GOOD ROADS

Necessary to Maintenance of The Rural Free Mail Routes.

It is announced that the government will look more carefully to the enforcement of its rule regarding the roads over which rural free delivery is established. The present requirement is: "Roads traversed shall be kept in good condition and unobstructed by gates, there must be no unbridged creeks, or streams not fordable at any season of the year." In many cases the residents along proposed routes have made improvements that enable them to obtain rural delivery service, but sometimes the efforts to keep up the roads are relaxed. But the government has decided that unless the roads traveled by carries are properly maintained the service will be withdrawn. The Postoffice Department now calls on the carries for reports on the roads, and will stop the service where the highways in question are bad.

The 35,973 rural delivery carries now employed cover 863,363 miles daily, and it is unreasonable to expect them to contend with neglected roads, to work for communities lacking the enterprise to keep their common highways in decent shape. Whenever a route is discontinued the inhabitants themselves will be to blame for it, for if alive to their own

WITH A RESERVATION.

The Evidence Showed It But the Judge Didn't Believe It.

A certain judge is noted for the strict impartiality with which he arrives at decisions, even when his personal bias is strongly the other way.

On one occasion, having heard a certain famous case, he found himself impelled to give a decision repugnant to his own inclination.

"Do you mean you think the defendant was not at heart a swindler?" demanded an intimate friend.

"Well," said Judge X—, solemnly, "I took that evidence abroad for a week-end with me and studied it. Then I brought it home and spent more time on it. Then I said in my decision:

"So far as the evidence shows, the defendant is an upright and honorable gentleman."

"So far the evidence shows," he repeated slowly and with emphasis. Then he leaned forward in his chair, placed a hand on the other's knee, and exclaimed, with an air of vindication: "But, my friend, I didn't say I believed it!"

Broken Winded Horse.

Heaves is closely related to asthma in the human family. It is attended with difficulty of breathing and a sensation of constriction in the chest, wheezing, generally accompanied by a cough. It is caused by overfeeding on clover, etc., but more particularly on chaff, dry bran and oats and bulky food, a great deal of which has generally to be eaten in order to obtain the requisite percentage of nutriment.

Heaves is almost invariably observed to exist in proportion as clover is fed, it is observed to decrease where land heretofore yielding clover has refused to produce it in paying quantities, and it is also caused by animals being left in the stable for several days, and during this time being fed the ordinary quantity of hay which they would have received were they at work. Badly saved or dusty hay is a great producer of heaves. Violent exercises, which unreasonably distend the lungs or an hereditary predisposition to the disease, favors its appearance. It has been considered common to both young and old. Such animals do not stand work well as the muscular tissue is soft and easily made to show the effects of fatigue. A close stable is unsuited for any horse but particularly so for those suffering from this disease. Turn out the animal on pasture where there is no clover. Cereals of laxative food will relieve the complaint, but the disease is incurable.

A New Breed of Sheep.

Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, the man who inflicted upon the world the tortures of the telephone, has for sixteen years been engaged in the more prosaic work of promulgating a new type of sheep. His evolution is based upon the selection of ewes showing rudimentary nipples on their udders. These have been nurtured and developed until every ewe has four functional nipples instead of the ordinary two found in all other sheep. In some instances the nipples have increased to six, so that Dr. Bell is quite sanguine that he will have no difficulty in fixing a type of quarto-nippled ewes which, strangely enough, are almost invariably the producers of twin lambs, and it is along this line of investigation that the doctor's efforts have been directed. One of the freaks this season is a ewe lamb bearing eight well-formed nipples. The only inference that we draw from the doctor's success is that he is one man in a thousand who has eyes and can see something. The trouble with most of us is that we do not pretend to see very much.

NOTICE.

Orders Ohio County Court, regular term, 1st day, September 3, 1906. Present Hon. W. B. Taylor, County Judge, Presiding.

It appearing to the satisfaction of the Court, that the Fiscal Court of Ohio county, by majority of the members composing the same, has heretofore decided that Elections to regulate the running of stock at large in Ohio county, Kentucky, shall be confined to the voting precincts in said county, and it further appearing that R. T. Taylor and 31 other legal voters of Cool Springs voting precinct; and E. T. Williams and 24 other legal voters of West Hartford voting precinct; and Sam Dunn and 22 other legal voters of Cromwell voting precinct; and T. E. Butler and 30 other legal voters of Shreve voting precinct, have filed their several petitions herein praying an election to be held in their respective voting precincts at the regular election, November 6, 1906, for the purpose of taking the sense of the legal voters in each of the said precincts upon the question: Whether or not cattle, generally, shall be permitted to run at large in said precincts or any of them; and it appearing that said petitioners have deposited with this court the sum of $5.00 to defray the expenses of the election in each of the said precincts. It is therefore ordered and adjudged that said question be submitted to the voters of said precincts at the regular election, [November 6, 1906, and] the officers of the regular election are directed to open a poll at each and all of the voting places in said precincts in Ohio county, Kentucky, for the purpose of ascertaining the will of the legal voters in each of the said precincts upon the question: Whether or not they shall permit cattle, generally, to run large in their respective voting precincts. Notice of the submission of this question shall be published, at least 20 days before the said election, in at least four issues of the HARTFORD REPUBLICAN, a newspaper of general circulation published in said county. The County Clerk is ordered to have printed on the ballots of each of said precincts the question: For or against the running at large of cattle, in Cromwell voting precinct, Cool Springs precinct, West Hartford voting precinct, excepting hogs, sheep, goats and geese, and Shreve voting precinct, Ohio county, Kentucky, naming the precinct on each poll book.

The judgment as affects Shreve voting precinct, by oversight, or error was not regularly rendered at the regular September Term, as was the intention of the court, and the same is now entered "Nunc Pro Tunc."

Wrong Ways of Saving.

Don't save money by—
Using cheap soap. You will ruin your complexion and have to buy cold cream if you do.
Sewing in the dark. Gaslight is cheaper than oculists bills.
Going without luncheon. You will injure your health and digestion if you do.
Walking when overtired to avoid car fares. You save in money, but undermine your constitution, says home notes.
Overworking. Nobody thanks you. You will be cross and irritable and your husband will wish you were not so zealous.

Stretching It.

An American visiting Dublin told some startling stories about the height of the New York buildings. An Irishman who was listing stool it is as long as he could and then queried:

"Ye havn't seen our newest hotel, have ye?"

The American thought not.

"Well," said the Irishman, "it's so tall that we had to put the two top stories on hinges."

"What for?" asked the American.

"So we could let 'em down till the moon went by," said Pat.

MADE TO WEAR
BY
ARNOLD SHOE COMPANY
NORTH ABINGTON, MASS.

Distinctive Style, Great Variety, Moderate Price, ease the first day worn, the best the world produces at their cost. These are the distinguishing features of the King Quality Shoes for men, that have caused them to be favored beyond all other Men's Shoes in the world. The season's new styles in Patent Calf, Vici, Cordovan, Velour and Box Calf are now ready. The purchase of one pair of King Quality Shoes at $3.50, $4.00 or $5.00 will weld you to our Shoe department for all time to come.

Barnes' Special Shoes

For nice wear at $1.25, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50 and $3.00 are the cream of the world's productions at these prices. Our showings in strong, sturdy, good wearing Shoes for the cold, windy weather, for men and boys, are everything a customer could demand. Our years of successful Shoe retailing, places us in a position to serve you better and more satisfactorily than any concern in this country. Our one price system enables the poor judge to buy as cheap as the professional Shoe buyer. Buy your shoes from us and get right treatment.

Queen Quality Shoes for Women.

Our exhibit of the fall styles of Queen Quality Shoes for Women is now ready. The display is instructive as an exhibit of the correct Shoe fashions which all America will be wearing, and we request the favor of your inspection, entirely regardless of whether you desire to buy or not. Priced at $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00. In ladies' fine Shoes, priced at $1.50, $1.75, $2.00 and $2.50, we are showing the well established Priesmeyer Brand in Kid, Patent Leather and Box Calf. Every pair made as solid and honest as Uncle Sam's silver dollar. They are the standard the world over by which all Shoe values are measured. And to know that you buy the same grade of Shoe as cheap as anybody else can buy them at this store, is a source of permanent satisfaction. Our line of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Heavy Shoes for school and outdoor wear are everything your needs require. Kangaroo Calf, Box Calf, with good honest Soles, Heels and Counters. FRIEDAY, OCTOBER 25.

A Little Difference.

BY OMER CHAPUT.

(Copyright, 1906, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)
"How dare you? I wonder if you are still a gentleman and if you have forgotten that I am a lady. Yes, sir, I am a lady, remember it."

Fast and angry came the words, springing up from a cozy hammock swinging between two apple trees. Her form had been showing to the best advantage as she lay there in a most becoming gown of soft material, gracefully draped with lace, the sunbeams playing in her golden tresses and the delicate tints of the apple blossoms in the background made a never to be forgotten picture.

She had been feigning sleep when her cousin Arthur, approaching silently, coughed a little to wake her up and this being unsuccessful, he gently leaned over her and, encircling her graceful head with his hands, implanted a long and sweet kiss on her forehead, white as the lily of the valley. It is hard to say if it was the kiss or the pressure of the hands on the temples. Perhaps the kiss was too long, but Arthur could not duplicate it, for Edith stood up, her cheeks and forehead covered with indignation. She was looking like a peach and he felt a great inclination to transgress again, but the indignant eyes, although he compared them to some precious stones, kept him away.

"How dare you!" Emphasizing her words with little stamps of her foot and grinding her pretty French heels into the turf. "Have you become a ruffian since your two years of absence in Paris? What do you take me for? Do you still believe in the Quartier Latin, where a girl may be found to submit to such opportunities? What! Oh, what—" But she was out of breath. Her face was pale and her eyes had a suspicion of moisture in them. Arthur saw his chance and immediately availed himself thereof, saying:

"What do I take you for? I take you for the sweetest little girl in all the world. The temptation to take that delicious kiss I could not resist; I did not expect you to awaken, and I am only sorry that

"How Dare You, Sir!"

I could not repeat the offense. Your anger is quite right, I know, but I did not expect such a fury from you. I am ready, dear, to give back what I have stolen, if you are willing."

"Enough! I am not trifling; keep your vulgar jokes to yourself, I will not be a party to them. I am disappointed in you; I do not find the jolly cousin and the refined gentleman I remember of two years ago, when you left to study medicine. Go away. I do not want you to sit so close to me."

"But—" "There is no but, and do not look at me in the eyes like that. I am not taking any Parisian gallantries."

"What—" "There is no 'what.' Listen to me," she said, vehemently. "You outraged my feelings and I am right to protest. More than that, you greatly disappointed me. The first time you saw me alone after two years of absence, you take advantage of my solitary sleep in the orchard and insolently kiss me on the forehead. I wonder what has produced such a change in you since we parted. I was always expecting you to return a polished man."

"Now, may I have a word, please?"

"Yes, justify yourself, if you can."

"Your cousin Arthur has returned the same as ever; he has kisses only for you. The change is not on his side. Seriously speaking, before I left for abroad you could not have allowed me to wake you in any way except by a kiss. I was tempted to on several occasions, and I even had at times suspicion that you were feigning sleep when I came to spend the afternoon with you in the orchard."

"But you forget that I was only 17 at that time, and now I am 19. I am a lady, and you must know that a lady does not allow a gentleman of 23 to kiss her on the forehead when they are alone in an orchard."

In spite of her defense, Arthur sat in the hammock that swung a little under the pressure of his foot on the ground. The curve of the hammock brought them very close together, his arm leaned behind her, forming a nest for her head.

"Does that mean," he says, "that having grown a lady you do not care any more for my love and kisses?"

She smiled in triumph at the situation. He continued: "Would that mean that, being a lady of 19, your heart is no more as it was at 17? Could that mean that you have another love?"

"The change is on your side, sir. You promised to complete the engagement on your return. You have been staying here since yesterday, and your cool behavior is at variance with your former ardor."

"It is your fault. I was to tell you that I had your father's consent and to put upon your finger the engagement ring. I knew you were in the hammock, I came straight to the place. I find you asleep, I kiss you very tenderly and you fly into a fury."

"Oh! That kiss, that kiss again. I tell you, there is no excuse for it."

"Even now?"

"Less than ever."

"How is it, Explain it to me."

"You have no excuse for having placed a kiss on my forehead."

A curious little change had taken place in her face, the anger—real or simulated—had died out, leaving a rosy, blushing, happy face, and she whispered so quietly that he had to listen intently to hear it:

"You might have kissed me on the lips."

THE FIRES OF IMAGINATION.

A couple of Americans were inspecting an English fire station.

One of them, addressing the chief engineer, said:

"Do you know, in New York we use a nine-inch hose, not a paltry three-inch, such as you have here?"

"Oh!" replied the chief engineer, "that small hose is for watering the station; this 12-inch hose is what we use at fires. Besides, it saves the use of a fire escape, for when we want to send a man up to the top of a building, we just turn the water on, and he is up there in no time!"

"Yes," remarked one of the visitors, "but how does he get down again?"

"Well," replied the engineer, "he simply places his arms round the jet of water and slides down!"

SHATTERED DREAM.

A soft air shook the honeysuckle vine and puffs of delicate perfume floated to the young lovers. Clarence's tone was reverent and hushed. It was as though the slim and beautiful girl were in his eyes a goddess.

"Darling," he said, "each time I kiss you it makes a better man of me."

A voice from above cried harshly: "What are you now, then—saint or archangel?"

A burst of ribald laughter, the rattle of a closing window, and once more the night was bathed in holy calm.

REMARKABLE SUMMER SCHOOL.

Far above the level of the sea, although still in a valley of the Tennessee river, surrounded by mountain peaks, is held perhaps the most remarkable of all the summer schools of the United States. About 10 states are represented, with nearly 2,000 in average attendance. The students consist of teachers from kindergartens to university professors; the work of the school covers topics adapted to every grade from the primary school to philosophy and higher mathematics. Nearly 150 courses are offered. Special attention is paid to drawing, music, nature study, manual training and economics. The school is held in association with the University of Tennessee. Perhaps the most interesting feature of this school is the creation of a national guild of play and the recognition of play as an important method of education.

location. A union feature is another guild, or league, of national story tellers.

COERCED.

Tess—So she's engaged to Mr. Pick. I wonder how he came to propose.

Jess—I don't believe he did come to do it, but she was determined not to let him go until he did.

TURN ABOUT.

In prosperity the proud man knows nobody; in adversity nobody knows him.

HERBERT.

Oct. 22.—Mr. Van Baker, of Floral, was in this community Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Obe Burdett were the guests of Austin Crowe and family, of Whitesville, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Miller and Miss Mattie Barnett visited the family of C. W. Phillips Sunday, it being Mr. Phillips' seventieth birthday.

Miss Mabel Miller has returned from a week's visit to Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Gilmore, of Fordsville.

Mr. John Saunders and family and Miss Emma Henton, of Render, are spending the week with Guy Hinton.

Mrs. Sadie Taylor, of Haynesville, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Miller.

Mr. Herbert Haynes made a flying trip to Floral Sunday.

Ira Crowe has purchased the farm of Wm. Crowe, of this place.

In Memory of

Mr. Nat Brooks, who departed this life October 9, 1906, age 53 years. Uncle Nat was a miner and had been for many years. About 9 o'clock, Tuesday, Oct. 9, a rock fell on him, breaking his back and both shoulders. His youngest son and his nephew ran to his assistance, but they were too late. Uncle Nat was known all over the community. He has toiled hard through life, but oh, his troubles and trials are past. He is in that bright Eternal Home, where there is no pain nor sorrow. He leaves a wife, four children, an aged mother, two sisters and eleven brothers.

Weep not, dear wife, God knows best. Uncle Nat is not dead but sleepeth. He has paid the debt we all must pay. A. V. B.
